1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the principles of the theory of the function of the mind. It is shown that the mind is not a passive receiver of impressions from the outside world, but an active agent which selects and interprets the impressions according to its own needs and desires. The mind is thus a selective and interpretive organ, and its function is to organize the sensory material into a coherent and meaningful whole. This is the first principle of the theory of the function of the mind.

2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the principles of the theory of the function of the mind. It is shown that the
